More volatility and more concern but many markets powered higher again. Performance was more mixed than in recent months, though we still saw gains across all sectors bar currencies. Our leading positions were gold, US large caps, Tech, convertible bonds and Asian equities. These were partially offset by losses from agriculturals, and FX pairs with a short dollar leg. A small short exposure to oil was also negative. Our appetite for risk has subsided somewhat, given the increased volatility and correlations across a number of assets.
